Malone Design & Construction Completes Project at Corner Stone Dental Company Installed More Dental Equipment to Accommodate Extra Patients

August 16, 2005: O'FALLON, IL-- When a business constructs a unique office building, oftentimes the public responds in an overwhelmingly favorable manner. Such is the case for Corner Stone Dental in Swansea, IL, completed by Malone Design & Construction in April 2004. Barely a year after Malone completed the beautiful, yet state-of-the-art office, Corner Stone Dental rehired the company to add more operatories, or dental stations, due to patient and staff growth.

“We are very proud of the positive influence our construction has had on Corner Stone Dental’s business,” said Marty Malone, Vice President at Malone Design & Construction. “We expected the practice to be busy, but its phenomenal increase in patient numbers has surpassed our expectations.”

During the most recent project, which was finished in August, Malone installed three operatories adjacent to the laboratories and technical areas. This allows dentists and technicians to access information more quickly, shortening the amount of time patients spend at the office. Malone also added technological features, such as telephone, electric and data lines, to allow the office to function at the most optimal level.
