Malone Construction Changes its Name to Match what Company Does Today
“Malone Building Solutions” Reflects the Firm’s Wide Range of Services

February 27, 2006: O’FALLON, IL— Malone Construction of O’Fallon, IL recently changed its name to Malone Building Solutions. The new name reflects the firm’s commitment to providing complete solutions for design-build commercial construction.

“Our firm was founded as a construction company, but construction is only a small part of what we do,” said Marty Malone, Vice President of Malone Building Solutions. “We now focus on the design-build process which involves many services ranging from feasibility studies, property location and cost budgets to taking responsibility for the design and construction management. We want our clients to consider us as the starting point for their commercial projects, not just the contractor.”

Malone Building Solutions has utilized these services for commercial projects such as the new PET/CT imaging wing for the Cancer Treatment Center in Swansea, IL, the $7.5 million renovation of the Tanker Airlift Control Center (TACC) at Scott Air Force Base, professional office buildings, retail locations and the construction of high-tech medical and dental facilities.

“Although we changed our name, the values of our 30-year-old business have remained constant,” Malone said. “As Malone Building Solutions, we remain committed to ethics, reputation, integrity and the highest design-build standards.”

Malone Building Solutions, founded in 1976, is an innovative company that specializes in both the design and building aspects of commercial construction. The full-service firm provides a “Concept to Completion” approach that ensures seamless project delivery.
